

Earth and Space Topic homework grid. Minimum of one quality piece of work. Display of work at Open Morning limited to half a table (where the children sit) and the floor area below. Have fun!

Bake rock cakes that resemble meteorites 	Design and build a working model showing the moon and earth's orbits around the sun	Listen to Gustav Holst's 'The Planets' and use it as inspiration for a dance or piece of artwork 	Write a fantasy story set in space
Design a poster to encourage others to reduce, reuse and recycle in order to minimise further damage to our Earth's atmosphere	Compile a quiz about the solar system 	Asteroids v Comets: write a comparison	Use different fruit and vegetable or bake and decorate biscuits to show the comparable sizes of the different planets – take a photo
Choose a creative way to present different star constellations 	Research the latest developments in NASA's work and record it as a news report	Design and make a rocket and means to propel it into the air (or space!) 	Paint and label pebbles to represent the different planets
Research historical landmarks in space travel and present your findings how you wish... First man? First animal? First lunar landing?	Use a diagram to explain the different phases of the moon, day and night or the seasons. 	Draw and label your very own planet and explain what you are going to do to ensure people can happily live on it.	Find and perform a poem on the theme of Earth and Space

